Art Making for Connection: Youth & Caregivers Creating Together

In collaboration with LIFE as Medicine: Circle of Indigenous Healing Arts and Craft Nova Scotia, this art workshop will explore art making as a healthy way to foster communication and trust between youth and their caregivers. Youth and caregivers will be using art making as a way to communicate and create artworks together. We will be focusing on the journey of art making and everyone will leave with supplies to continue art making at home.

No art experience is required.

Sunday July 7 | 2pm-4pm

For Caregivers and Youth (ages 7-12)
